TWO LIVES LOST.

Monday morning about 3 o'clock No. 57, a south bound through freight, and 1st No. 78, a chain gang freight, ran together in a head-end collision two miles south of Kellys Station. Both trains were going at full speed and the shock was terrific. Both engines and some fifteen cars were piled up in a frightful mass and Engineer Hamby and Fireman Drake on 57 were killed. Engineer Wood on 78 was slightly cut and bruised, his fireman, Parkington, was uninjured, Conductor Smith on this train was slightly bruised.

No. 57 was in charge of Conductor Willie Boyd and Engineer Hamby. No. 78 was in charge of Conductor Jesse Smith and Engineer Wood.

The trouble was occasioned by Operator Sisk overlooking an order that was given to him for No. 57 and 1st No. 78 to meet at Kellys. He had received the order only nineteen minutes before No. 57 whistled for the board. It is supposed he had fallen asleep and when he heard 57 whistle forgot he had the order and gave them the white light which means "No orders for you." The train sped on and struck No. 78 with the above results.

As soon as the operator at Kellys told the dispatcher at Earlinton that 57 was by he at once ordered both the Earlinton and Nashville wreckers and had their orders out and they were ready to sign up before he received a report from the wrecked trains. They were hurried to the scene of the trouble and at once went to work to clear the track. Engineer Hamby was found under his engine and was fearfully cut and mangled, his death must have been instantaneous. Fireman Drake lived a short while after he was removed. The bodies of both men were removed to Hopkinsville and prepared for burial and were then shipped to their home in Nashville.

No. 92 and 52 north bound passengers and No. 53 south bound were run by the way of Nortonville, Central City and Russellville and were consequently a few hours late. The track was cleared about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Notice.

To my friends in Earlinton:
A business opportunity has come to me that will make it impossible for me to fulfill the duties of the office of Police Judge of Earlinton the coming term if I should be elected and I herewith withdraw from the race. I heartily thank those of you who endorsed me and pledged me your support.

Henry M. Draper Dead.

Henry M. Draper, of Knoxville, Tenn., a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Draper, of this city, died at that place last Wednesday, Oct. 5th, after an illness of several weeks duration of typhoid fever. The remains were brought to this place on Friday morning and conveyed to the parents' residence, where funeral services were conducted by G. T. Dame. Interment took place at Earlinton cemetery Friday afternoon.

CAMPBELL CALLED DOWN.

Was Arrested While Fighting Booze in Henderson and Incidentally Trying to Make a Speech.

Secretary-Treasurer Campbell, colored, of the United Mine Workers district organization created a stir at the railroad station in Henderson on Sunday afternoon, October 1st, and was given a free ride in the patrol wagon. The policeman at the station and others who were there tried to advise Campbell to be quiet and avoid arrest but he seemed bent on breaking into jail and was just drunk enough to be very noisy and persistent in his efforts to make a speech in the white waiting room. He was advised to "go into the colored waiting room where he belonged," and he said "Me, go into the colored waiting room?" He declined to take advice and had to be assisted by a policeman. But there was just one place he wanted to be—in the white waiting room: just one thing he wanted to do—make a speech. Patience was finally exhausted and the officer called the patrol and Campbell was carried to the station house where he was released on bond. The next morning he pleaded guilty to a plain drunk and was fined three dollars and the costs.

REBATE EVIL IS SCOTCHED.

Praise for the President and Department of Justice for Their Action in the SCHWARZCHILD & SULZBERGER CASE.

The conviction and fining of four members of the firm of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger last week, for accepting rebates, forms the chief object of discussion among the returning politicians in Washington. Praise for the President and the Department of Justice is coming in from all over the country. It appears to be the general opinion that the rebate evil is effectively scotched. A successful precedent has been established in rebate cases, and hereafter, it is alleged, the Government's path will be comparatively easy in obtaining similar convictions in future cases of this kind arise.

The general belief as to the result of the fining of the packers is optimistic. The current opinion holds that it will have an immediate and lasting effect in curbing those large shippers who demand discriminations in their favor from the railroads. If the Government is on the alert to enforce the law and the large shippers will be fined $25,000 whenever they are discovered accepting rebates, the rebate will soon become as defunct as the adulterated milk. And rapacious shippers will be further impressed by the fact that there is every reason to believe that the Government will not be satisfied by the payment of a fine for a second offense.

The belief grows that the decision of the United States District Court in Chicago will have a great effect in modifying the demands of those who are agitating for rate regulation. Conservative opinion in Washington regards the conviction of the packers as an effective demonstration of the contention that existing legislation is competent to deal with unjust rate discrimination and as supporting the view that there is plenty of law on the statute books, if the Government will only see to its enforcement. Those who opposed additional railroad legislation before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce at its special session last spring are pointing to the fact that they reiterated over and over again that existing laws, actively enforced, are adequate and are saying, "I told you so."

The Launching of the J—P.

Saturday afternoon about two o'clock a new craft was launched in the transparent waters of Loch Mary with due ceremony. The handsome little skiff was presented to John and Paul Moore, Jr., by their grandfather, Mr. John B. Atkinson. After the crating had been removed and the nails pulled from the keel the skiff was carried from the boat house to the edge of the water and was shoved in as Mrs. Moore broke a bottle of lake water over the prow and christened the new boat the J—P in honor of the young owners. Quite a number of friends were present at the launching and witnessed the ceremony.

The poorest of all poverty is the inability to sever the manacles of a bad habit.

As righteousness tendeth to life; so that pursuit evil pursueth it to his own death.

The Railroad Rate Question in a Nutshell.

One of the clearest and best statements of the essential facts bearing upon the proposed regulation of interstate railroad rates by Government authority that has been presented is contained in the address delivered by Hon. John V. Smith, of Montgomery, before the National Association of Railway Commissioners at recent meeting in Deadwood, S. D. Mr. Smith was the retiring president of the association, and in addition to his experience as chairman of the Alabama Railroad Commission, he has given a careful study to the larger problem of national regulation.

Mr. Smith sums the matter as follows: "First—It has been clearly shown and proved by statistics which I have never heard questioned, that the average freight rates upon our American railroads are, by actual comparison, lower than any other country in the world, and lower than ever before in this country.

"Second—That the average pay of the laborers on our railroads is higher than that of any other country in the world.

"Third—That of the total earnings of the American railroads 40.80 per cent goes for labor and 23.04 per cent for capital; in England 27.63 per cent for labor, 38.02 per cent for capital; in Germany 38.04 per cent for labor and 35.02 per cent for capital. It is also shown that for the year 1904 the pay of employees in the United States has absorbed 42 per cent of the gross earnings.

"Fourth—It was shown that according to the census and interstate commerce reports the net increase in the United States from operation of agriculture in 1900 was 8.05 per cent; from manufactures 19.05 per cent; while the railroads have only yielded 4.06 per cent. It is also true that the farms and manufacturing enterprises owe their prosperity to the cheap, rapid, and efficient railway transportation.

"Fifth—That the average capitalization of the railroads in the United States is $61,360, as against $127,696 in other countries.

"Sixth—That instead of the ownership of railways being concentrated into only a few hands, the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission shows that for the year 1904 the number of stockholders amounted to 327,851, and the owners of railway bonds amounted to about 700,000, making a grand total of more than a million.

"Seventh—That to place the rate making power in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission would logically result in the adoption of an arbitrary basis for fixing freight rates, which in turn would result in the erection of a Chinese wall around each industrial center, beyond the bounds of which it would be impossible to do business."

Children's Picnic.

Several of Earlinton's young people spent the day at Lakeside park Saturday. There were just thirty-two boys and girls. The girls furnished the dinner and the boys ate it. They had a jolly good time all day playing skip to my-loo and having shows. The dinner was nice and nicely served and greatly enjoyed by all present. In the afternoon fishing and boat riding were indulged in and several "small fish" were caught. The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fawcett, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Orr and Bryan Hopper.

GREATER KENTUCKY.

Many Business Men of the State Gather in Convention at Louisville.

MAY MAKE THE MEETING ANNUAL.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Signalized by the attendance of nearly 800 representatives of Louisville and the State at large, who are enthusiastic in the idea of developing the resources of Kentucky, the fourth State Development Convention convened yesterday at the Galt House. Eight addresses were made during the day, each replete with appeals to the citizens of the State to awake to its possibilities. The organization of business clubs was one of the most important suggestions. Several speakers of the day suggested that Kentucky should cease depending on honor of the past and look to the future.

In all of the eight speeches made, the two ideas were predominant: "Kentucky has lived long on honor," said one speaker, "and it will ever redound to her credit." "Now that we have that, we should look for something else—commercial growth, advancement and prosperity, not the worship of old ideas. Those have become synonymous with the name, Kentucky. Now we need commercial push."

Delegates to the convention began to gather early in the morning and spent the time before 2 o'clock registering and securing badges. Before the opening session was called to order, nearly every county had been represented and others arrived later in the day and last night. At the afternoon session, the convention hall was well filled. At the combined smoker, music and business session last night standing room was almost at a premium.

Great Enthusiasm.

In point of attendance and enthusiasm the convention has already surpassed any heretofore held. With the first address, the representatives of the different counties showed a tendency to applaud every utterance in regard to the present prosperity of the State. After some sober consideration of the object of the convention, however, this disappeared to give place to an apparent interest in every sentence of advice or recommendation.

While the actual business of the convention was hardly reached yesterday, the speakers went to the meat of the subjects under consideration with little play of words. The attendance at night was augmented largely by Louisville business men, many of whom attended the afternoon session also.

May be Annual Event.

Owing to the unsurpassed enthusiasm expressed in the convention, the promoters have about decided that it shall be made an annual meeting hereafter instead of a biennial gathering as heretofore. Three prosperous Kentucky cities have sent large delegations to the convention to push this idea in the hope of attracting the next meeting. Paducah, Winchester and Versailles are the candidates for the honor of entertaining the convention at its next session, and each delegation is anxious to have the next meeting held as soon as possible.

The widely expressed opinions of the delegates, speakers and promoters of the meeting were to the effect that the present meeting has produced more enthusiasm and interest than all of the former conventions combined, and the body will doubtless decide to make the gathering an annual event, when the question comes up for discussion. The delegates will select the meeting place under the Executive Committee as heretofore.

Prof. Dougherty Locked Up in a Cell in Jail.

During His Twenty-Seven Years as Superintendent of Schools He Stole at Least $750,000.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 10.—It is estimated that Prof. Newton G. Dougherty's shortage will reach $750,000. Dougherty, who was superintendent of schools, president of a national bank, and investor in many other financial and industrial enterprises, has been losing the school fund for years. He has been managing the school fund for 17 years, and it is estimated that some years he had stolen as high as $100,000. Failing to give bond in 69 instalments at $1,000 each, this polished embezzler was locked up in a cell in the jail, having at last found his proper position.

Reform Wave Responsible.

"If I have done anything wrong," Dougherty said, "I suppose I ought to be punished for it."

"Do you ascribe your present prosecution to any political influence?" he was asked.

"No, I do not," he answered. "It can be ascribed to the wave of reform which seems to be sweeping the country. It is shown in the investigation of the life insurance companies, in the Milwaukee graft investigation and some similar investigations in other cities, in so far as instances these investigations have accomplished a great deal of good."

Dougherty declared that he had no personal knowledge of the bank affairs.

Howling Green, Ky., Oct. 10.—Reverend Charles Milliken this afternoon appointed Col. E. L. Mottley trustee in bankruptcy for the banking firm of P. J. Potter & Sons. This followed an exciting race between Col. Mottley and W. F. Toops for the position.

There is now enough money on hand to pay a dividend of about 10 per cent. The bank assigned April 21 last for $1,006,000, and had assets estimated at $1,019,000. A few creditors forced it into bankruptcy where the assignee had already declared a dividend of 10 per cent. The institution was one of the oldest and best known in Kentucky.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and

They told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me no great relief, but two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering human beings.

THE WABASH BATTLE

The Day Taken Up Recounting Practices—The Gould Interest Overwhelmingly in the Majority.

Toledo, O., Oct. 11.—No directors were chosen at the annual meeting of the Wabash railroad Tuesday. The session, with the exception of two brief recesses, lasted from nine o'clock in the morning until 11:15 at night, almost the entire time being taken up by the examination of proxies. Although no figures had been given out by the inspectors of election, it is believed that the vote to be taken the first thing this morning will show that Mr. Gould has behind him about $23,000,000 of the bonds, and that Mr. Ramsey has in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. This makes certain that six men nominated by the Gould faction as directors representing the bondholders will be elected. These men are Russell Sage, Winnow S. Pierce, R. C. Clowry, E. T. Willis, W. B. Saunders and R. M. Galloway. Mr. Ramsey has not shown sufficient strength to enable him to hold his seat as a director, and it is generally believed that he is weaker in stock proxies than he is in the bonds.

Result of an Old Feud.
Danville, Ill., Oct. 11.—The renewal of a long-standing feud between Cassius Lawrence and John Crimmins, farmers and stock raisers, residing near Indiana, this county, resulted in the former shooting and instantly killing the latter. Lawrence, accompanied by friends, came to Danville and surrendered himself to the sheriff. He claims self-defense.

Around the Farm

To Keep Eggs Fresh.

It is possible to keep eggs fresh for any length of time by simply immersing them in a ten per cent solution of salicylic acid, commonly called "liquid glass." This produces the formation of a coating which renders the eggs perfectly air-tight. The preserving solution is best prepared by dissolving one pound of liquid glass in four gallons of cold water. The eggs then immersed in this solution (which should be kept in a glass earthenware vessel), and are kept in it for a short time. Prof. W. B. of the North Dakota Experiment Station says it is believed that in water glass we have a preservative which will, when used for preserving eggs, give better satisfaction than any other method available for those who desire to keep eggs for any great length of time. Eggs put down by this method have kept from three to nine months, and the eggs have come out in better condition than by any other method tested.

Unproductive Orchards.

The Illinois experiment station has done considerable work on orchard cultivation and management. In bulletins the following are given as some of the reasons why many orchards are unproductive:

1. Too many growers are expecting a crop to be given them without putting forth any efforts themselves, after the trees have been set. The apple tree requires the same careful attention as other farm crops.
2. Lack of moisture is a common cause of failure, especially in southern Illinois. This is because grass and other crops are allowed to compete with the trees for the moisture supplied by rains. Water is just as essential to the apple tree on a hot summer's day as it is to the laborer in the harvest field.
3. Injuries resulting attacks of insects or of fungus diseases. These depredators consider that they have as much right to the products of the farm as does the farmer himself. For this reason he must get his artillery and ammunition ready to fight the enemy.
4. Lack of fertility is a common cause. The apple orchard cannot produce a profitable crop unless provided with an ample supply of nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid, and the same reasons may well apply to the unproductive orchards of the other states of the Mississippi valley.

For the Dairyman.

Don't put off filling the silo until the corn is caught by the frost. Prune the day at evening, and the cow at the end of the year, if she then deserves it. Cleanliness is next to godliness; this applies as much to the cow stable as the front parlor. To make a success of dairying you can't know too much about your cows. No two are just alike. Cows which have good and comfortable surroundings eat less food, get on better and give more milk. One way to test the corn is to press the grain firmly, and if the pulp slips out easily it is properly matured for the silo.

If the corn is very green and soft, it is watery, and the ensilage made from it is apt to become too acid. If too old, it will lack succulence, will mold, and will not keep well.

General Farm Notes.

Ground your wire fences. Oil is a heap cheaper than machinery.

To save time is to lengthen life. Plan your work beforehand.

Attend to that painting now. Heat drives the oil in, where it counts the most.

Kind and considerate treatment goes a good ways in getting the best results from the boy or hired man. When you undertake to hire a farm hand, and he says he will "exchange references" with you—then you realize that labor is making a union with independence. Yet, after all, why should the laborer alone certify to his character? The employer should also have something of the sort.

The Range for Hogs.

While most swine raisers believe in the range for hogs, they are inclined towards some of the sown crops, such as rape and oats, rather than to the regulation grass pasture of mixed growth. There is no doubt but that rape and oats or rape alone, makes a good pasture for swine. If they are not turned on it too soon. A good general plan is to wait until the rape is say, eight or nine inches high before the swine are turned in.

The Live Stock.

Any fool can run a team, but a wise driver maintains its value.

Quiet and patient drivers are worth twice as much as any other.

It is not well for a driver to trust a young horse too far, no matter how quiet he may seem ordinarily.

While fattening hogs should have all the grain they will eat up clean. No more should be given at any one time than is readily eaten.

A docile, contented animal is always a good feeder; as little of its feed is spent in nervous excitement or restless action.

Save time, wagon grease and dirty fingers, as well as prolong the life of your horses and wagons by greasing little and often.

Never strike or hurt a baler. Stalk in his ear, or knock up his foot and tinkler with it fully three minutes. Divert his attention and do it kindly.

Wool is a product that does not take fertility from the soil, like grain growing, but actually adds to the soil for grain-growing purposes.

To know how to care for sheep so as to make them grow the largest and finest fleeces and the most vigorous lambs is the important part of sheep management.

Dry or Wet Feed for Cows.

An unusual experiment was made at a college farm with two small herds of milk cows. One herd received a ration of barley oats and clover hay, while the other herd was given a ration of bran and gluten feed. The cows, six in number, were fed for two periods of fourteen days each, and the ration was changed at about the end of the first period. On the ration fed wet the cows gave a total daily yield of 114 pounds of milk, containing 8.88 percent of fat, and the ration fed dry a daily yield of 116½ pounds of milk, containing 8.99 percent of fat, showing an increased daily yield of butter fat in favor of dry feed.

It is unfortunate that this test was not made with the same materials in both cases. It is generally believed among practical dairymen that gluten meal or feed is a better milk producer than oil meal, although the composition of the materials hardly explains the reason; hence the difference in the product may possibly be due to the difference in material rather than to the mere fact of wetting the feed.—Inland Farmer.

Salt Experiment.

At the Mississippi experiment station these cows were kept without salt for four weeks and their milk record kept during the last two weeks of this period. Then they were given the usual allowance of salt for two weeks, and on comparing the milk records it was found that the cows gave 454 pounds of milk during the first period, when salt was withheld, and 561 pounds during the second period, when salt was furnished, a difference of 110 pounds of milk in two weeks in favor of salting.

Feeding Milk for Cheeses.

It is not necessary to cook milk intended for cheese as thoroughly as when the milk is to be marketed as such, says American Agriculturist. Lactic acid fermentation need not be checked further than to allow the milk to arrive at the factory in good condition. Cool the milk to the temperature of the air, keeping it constantly in motion. This favors the escape of volatile animal odors, and the milk will keep well, enough for making cheese.

Keep a Record of the Cow.

Even a little difference in quality of milk accounts for the profit or loss on a cow. A shortage of one or two quarts a day often makes the difference between profit and loss on cows on feed. It does not make so much difference on pasture. There is no business way in a dairy except keeping a record of each cow.

THE BUTTERFLIES.

The presentation of "The Butterflies" as a big musical comedy by the local talent of Madisonville at the Temple Theatre on Saturday, October 21, promises a real novelty to the way of amateur theatricals. "The Butterflies" is a society comedy written by Henry Guy Carleton, playwright of world renown, and was first presented in this country by the well known actor, John Drew, and his inimitable company. Every line of the play is as bright as a new penny.

In order to make the performance one of more importance and to introduce a greater number of the local talent in the presentation, it was decided to arrange "The Butterflies" for the introduction of the latest songs and choruses, converting it into a big musical comedy. For more than a month Inkerman Bailey has been hard at work securing vocal numbers, orchestra parts and choruses, until at present one of the most dazzling musical plays is ready to be offered. Every vocal number has been carefully selected and is

THIS IS THE LETTER.

DEAR JOSIE:—As I promised to write to you as soon as I reached here, I must ask pardon for my neglect in not doing so, but I have been having such a huge time that I had not had a moment's time to spare until now. Have not even written a line to Jimmie, and you know I must be quite busy when I neglect such a pleasant pastime as that. Tell him not to worry for I have not forgotten him and he will get a LONG, LONG letter soon. I cannot begin to tell you one half the news and for fear I might forget part I will wait until I get home and tell you all. Oh, my, it is cold up here and you have no idea how glad I am I bought my cloak and furs before I started. You know I thought I would wait until I came up here to buy them but I am so glad I did not as I saved at least $5.00 by buying them from J. M. Victory. You know I bought one of those Empire Coats he is selling for $15.00 and I priced the same coat here and they wanted $20.00. I had no idea Mr. Victory had such excellent taste, but I find the identical styles he showed me, and being shown by all the leading cloak houses here, and you know when you and I were pricing his coats, well the ones he asked only $10.00 for they want $15.00, and one like his $12.50 they want $18.00. Guess I must cut this short as I must dress for the party tonight. I have a swell beau to take me, but don't tell Jimmie. Your Devoted Sister.

NEBO NOTES.

So far in the campaign very little interest is being taken by either party. We have heard several Democrats say that they felt little interest in the matter and that the Republican ticket was composed of good men and they had no doubt they would be elected.

Rev. J. E. King preached at the M. E. Church, South, Sunday morning and at night.

The election of school trustee at this place resulted in the election of Eli D. Cox.

Farmers are in good spirits over the finest crop of tobacco that was ever raised in the Nebo country and they had fine weather in which to put it in the house and cure it, and from present indications a good price will be realized. This, with the fine corn crop, is enough to make them happy. They have put in more wheat than ever before, and we have had a fine rain, which will cause wheat and grass to come up and get a good start before the winter sets in.

Parties are prospecting for coal about one mile southeast of here, and we hear it whispered that it is the finest coal field in Kentucky.
